Description

The M4 is a compact, lightweight, and highly maneuverable assault rifle. It is designed for use in close-quarters combat and is the standard issue for the United States Marine Corps. The M4 is a gas-operated, magazine-fed, selective-fire rifle. It has a 14-inch barrel and a forward rail. The M4 is available in several configurations, including the M4A1, M4A2, and M4A3. The M4A1 is the most common configuration and is the one shown in the image. The M4A2 has a longer barrel and a different stock. The M4A3 has a different magazine. The M4 is a highly reliable and accurate rifle. It is also very easy to use. The M4 is a great choice for anyone looking for a compact and powerful assault rifle.
